

OUR RESPONSE TO MICHAEL CARRUBE

SSSA Head Mike Carrube Has a BIG MOUTH...

But Without the TWU, He Would Have NOTHING to Show For His Membership!

Mike Carrube, head of the supervisors association, is at it again.

Because nobody follows him—when Mike wants attention—he talks about TWU.

Mike would be lost without the TWU. After all, the only way Carrube ever gets a contract, is by riding the TWU's coattails.

You would think Mike would be grateful to the TWU for leading the way and allowing him to settle a contract. But instead, Big Mouth Mike has nothing but bile for the union that has given him life.

Recently, the TWU secured a rich new contract for the nearly 40,000 Local 100 members at the MTA. (Like a good follower, Mike will someday accept a similar deal for his approximately 4,000 supervisors.)

After our contract went into effect, the MTA made a unilateral takeback attempt on our RDO premium pay. A change TWU Local 100 did not agree to!

Instead of standing in solidarity with the most powerful union in the MTA, Mike took the coward's way out by publishing a disgraceful and misleading letter blaming the TWU Local 100 President for the MTA's egregious action!

Despite Mike's long-standing (and one-sided) feuds with previous Local 100 Presidents, he's never attacked a Local 100 President in such an offensive way. What could be different about President Davis that irritates Mike so much? (We wonder.)

The TWU prevailed in our grievance against the MTA's takeback attempt—no thanks to Mike or his "association."

Once again, our victory will benefit Mike—and although he'll never say "thanks", to him we'll say —"you're welcome."

Richard Davis,

TWU Local 100 President
